Press Release

His Excellency Mr. Milan Raj Tuladhar, presented his Credential Letter as Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary of Nepal to the Russian Federation to His Excellency Mr. Vladimir Vladimirovich Putin, President of the Russian Federation, amid a special ceremony organized in Kremlin today.

During the ceremony, the President welcomed all twenty-four Ambassadors to the Russian Federation who presented their Letters of Credence and touched upon the current world situation. He emphasized that the UN should focus on promoting settlement of acute regional conflicts. He praised the influential role played by the Shanghai Cooperation Organization (SCO), which is playing more pivotal role within the region for a balanced political relation and economic development of the region.

During his speech, the President also dealt with bilateral relations with respective countries. Making special remarks about Nepal, the president stated "I would like to congratulate the leadership of Nepal and the entire Nepalese people on the Constitution Day celebrated today. I wish you success and prosperity. Russia's relations with Nepal have always been built in an atmosphere of mutual understanding and friendship. We hope the mutual relation will develop further in the coming days."

Due to existing protocols related to Covid-19, the format of the collective audience by the President was arranged.
